

More than two dozen researchers at major medical research institutions in Texas are participating in the Texas Alzheimer's Research and Care Consortium as follows:

Click on the PubMed links provided below for an up-to-date listing of these researchers' publications on Alzheimer's disease and other areas of research interest.